

summer session

LINGUISTICS

University of California, Irvine

SUMMER SESSION

Language is one of the most fundamental human instincts. It is an extraordinarily intricate system which all of us master as young children without special teaching, and which gives us the ability to communicate, tell stories, and express our deepest feelings. Linguistics is the scientific study of human language. It is concerned with understanding the nature of language and our knowledge of it, how we acquire it, and how that knowledge is put to use. It is connected to many other fields of study, including psychology, anthropology, sociology, biology, physics, mathematics, computer science, philosophy, and literature.

The Department offers an undergraduate minor and undergraduate courses.

100+

Social Sciences offers 100+ summer courses

8

Pay for only 8 units and pay no additional course fees for enrollment in additional units!

20+

20+ online courses - campus
attendance not required

LINGUISTICS COURSES

Summer Session I

- Linguis 3 Intro to Linguistics
- Linguis 68 Language & Culture

Summer Session II

- Linguis 3 Intro to Linguistics
- Linguis 175 Language Origins

Class schedules:

<https://www.reg.uci.edu/perl/WebSoc/>

Course descriptions:

<http://catalogue.uci.edu/schoolofsocialsciences/>

